DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 84 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mitsunori et al., JP-07-051,467 (Feb. 28, 1995).

Mitsunori discloses a video game system teaching the following features of the claimed invention:

- a. External memory for storing a video game program. See fig. 2(42), 7(42).
- b. Game microprocessor for executing the video game program. See fig. 2(50).
- c. Player controller operable by a player for generating video game control signals. See fig. 1(22), 2(22).
- d. Coprocessor coupled to the game microprocessor for cooperating with the game microprocessor to execute the video game program wherein the coprocessor is operable to communicate at least one player controller related command requesting an operation be performed relating to the video game control signals generated by the player controller. See fig. 2(64)
- e. Peripheral processing subsystem coupled to the coprocessor and operable to receive the player controller related command and for executing the command to thereby perform the operation related to the video game control signals. See fig. 2(60)

As listed above, Mitsunori teaches every feature of the claim. Consequently, the claimed invention is unpatentable as being anticipated by Mitsunori.
